

Jeff Rennie is the author of more than 250 magazine articles for such publications as NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC TRAVELER, READERS DIGEST, BACKPACKER and others. His work has twice been awarded Gold Medals for Excellence by the Society of American Travel Writers. He is also the author of ten books including TREASURES OF ALASKA published by the National Geographic Society, and JEWELS ON THE WATER: LAKE SUPERIOR'S APOSTLE ISLANDS. His photographs focus on Wisconsin's northwoods and the Lake Superior region. They have been published in Reader's Digest, Backpacker, National Geographic Traveler, and are displayed in corporate offices and various galleries.

While his work has taken him to some of the wildest places on five different continents, he teaches writing and literature at Conserve School and makes his home with his family in Bayfield on the shores of Lake Superior.
